

All the romance has gone out of the cow-boy's life. The magnificent liberty he was wont to enjoy, the recklessness of the round up, the hair-breadth escapes from Indians, the thousands of buffaloes he saw, his camp-fire, his fair Indian princess and his cattle roaming a thousand hills, all are hereafter the merest myths to the innocent reporter who wandered into the gallery of the exposition hall yesterday, and saw a dozen or more savage looking cow-boys blowing sweet music out of the intricate folds of a lot of brass instruments. The slight shattered the Globe-Democrat young man's dreams of the wild West forever. There before him was the cowboy band executing a Beethoven sonata, a Chopin nocturne, or something of the kind, while the leader waved a sixteen-inch silverplated, forty-four caliber revolver over them for a baton. It was impossible to imagine that these were genuine cowboys, but everyone had his certificate, and the leader, who waived the six-shooter, assured the small reporter who questioned him that brave men had perished in refusing to accept the genuineness of the cowboy musicians.

They toot until the people in the next county imagined that a lot of crazy barbers are out somewhere in their neighborhood after serenading the singing coyotes. Night after night passes in this way, until the self-educated musicians get an opportunity to burst in upon civilization and give the friends of culture and high art a taste of their quality. The change is a pretty good one, so say the cattle-men, as the music some cowboys make will kill back rabbits at ninety yards, and frighten coyotes, if they are inside the county line.

"What do you swing that gun for?" the Globe-Democrat reporter asked the leader of the cowboy band.

"That's my baton," was the answer.

"Is it loaded?"

"Yes."

"What for?"

"To kill the first man who strikes a false note."

Advice to leaders of local bands: Get a forty-four caliber revolver and use it mighty quick.—Globe-Democrat.

ED. OHIO DEMOCRAT:—I see that "Old Moss Back" asks legal counsel through your paper of the date of Aug. 28, concerning a criminal prosecution before B. H. Stevenson, entitled "The State of Ohio vs. Abe Tigner." "Moss Back" failed to state the charge or disclose any other fact in the case sufficient to elicit any rational conclusion. I am well acquainted with "Moss Back" and know at best he is only a bungler: a man that forms crude ideas of other men's doings and tries willfully to injure their popularity without any other reason than self importance and self interest. "Moss Back" has made statements that he well knows to be false: Statements that look more like the work of a crank than the sober fact and judicial reasoning of a profound J. P. I will now state the case, and how it was disposed of: according to the evidence produced; if there is anything wrong in the procedure gentlemen, you are at liberty to publish it but don't want it done maliciously and falsely and in idiotic style. The case is this: The State of Ohio vs. Abraham Tigner, for maiming by biting with intent to disfigure. The charge was filed from Warren's criminal law of 1870, first charge on page 256. I heard the evidence of both sides and there was no evidence produced to convict Tigner of biting off Swackhammer's ear a charged. Neither Swackhammer nor any of the witnesses swore that Tigner bit off the ear. But Swackhammer and several witnesses testified that it was agreed to meet and fight over an old feud and that they did meet at the place and time agreed upon, and each had his second with him to see fair play. The seconds searched the belligerents. After which one said to the other are you ready and he, Swackhammer, said "I am ready," and at that they went dog fashion I suppose Swackhammer bit first and Tigner next, it is supposed, bit Swackhammer. In the absence of positive proof of the biting and taking into consideration the manner in which it was done, I was governed by Warren's criminal code, of 1870, and pages 265 and 266 of Ohio decisions and common law rules: where if two persons agree together to fight at fists, and do so fight, neither of them can be convicted by reason of this of any assault or battery, but both are punishable for the affray. I told Tigner I would not hold him guilty of the charge for maiming but that the evidence found him guilty of an affray and he withdrew his plea of not guilty and plead guilty to an affray, and was fined. And Swackhammer was also arrested on complaint of James Tigner for fighting at fist-cuffs and biting with his teeth, and he plead guilty to the charge and was fined. Now, gentlemen, proceed and teach us and "Old Moss Back" something, for you now have the whole matter in a nut-shell as it took place. If we are wrong we are honestly so and don't think "Old Moss Back" should have taken us to task so severely.

Occasionally in the New York papers you will find an advertisement of a book entitled "Next of Kin," which professes to give a list of moneys lying in the Bank of England for which claimants are sought. Unclaimed estates in Great Britain do not, however lie around loose, and the experience of the Hydes, the Townleys and the Jennings ought to be a sufficient lesson to people who are building their hopes on the possession of "castles in Spain."

Berlin papers copy from the Germania an account of an important discovery in glass manufacture made by Friedrich Siemens, of Dresden. He has succeeded in casting glass in the same way as metal is cast and obtaining an article corresponding to cast metal. This cast glass is hard, not dearer in production than cast iron, and has the advantage of transparency, so that all flaws can be detected before it is applied to practical use. It will be much less exposed to injury from atmospheric influences than iron. The process of production is not difficult, the chief feature being rapid cooling. The hardness and resisting power of this cast glass are so great that experiments are being just now carried out at the Siemens Glass Foundry, at Dresden, with the purpose of ascertaining whether the material could be employed for rails on railways.

If the thirty million dollars' worth of tin annually used in the United States could be found at home it would furnish employment for a large number of people and an ex-capital. So far the tin used in this country is of foreign origin. Extensive tin deposits have been discovered in the Black Hills of Dakota and the experiment is now to be made which is to determine whether it can be profitably worked or not. A large shipment of the Dakota ore is now on the way to New York for reduction. If the ore proves rich enough in tin to be worth working, the supply is practically unlimited. The tin deposits of the Black Hills, it is claimed, cover an area of more than seven thousand square miles. The geological condition is said to be the same as that of Cornwall and other tin districts. In a country that produces nearly all the minerals in greater abundance than others the finding of extensive tin deposits might be naturally looked for.—Phil. Times.

The chestnut bell is causing considerable trouble. Saturday evening a youthful swain of this city was talking to his best girl when a crowd of boys passed him and rung their bells as much as to say: 'Ring off, etc.' The y. s. got mad; left his girl standing on the sidewalk and collared two of the bell ringers and used them in such a manner that will keep them from ringing bells for some time.
